Swooping on a skateboard, skimming on a surfboard, soaring down powder on skis: these are the sensations that compare to the thrill of driving the lean, quick, responsive Midget.

The MG Midget is a real, live, fully-equipped sports car. It has quick, precise rack and pinion steering, short-throw four-speed stick, a lively 1500cc engine, race-bred suspension and fade-resistant front disc brakes. It has the clean lines and convertible top that are the hallmark of sports cars in the classic tradition.

Plus the MG Midget gives you the extra value of the lowest price of any authentic sports car in America, and very low running costs, too. The EPA estimates the Midget gets 34 MPG on the highway and 23 in the city. Naturally, these figures are estimates and the actual mileage you get may vary depending on how and where you drive, the car's condition, how the car is equipped, and may be lower in California.

Drive the MG Midget soon, and learn how much fun not very much money can buy. For your nearest dealer call toll-free: (800) 447-4700, or, in Illinois, (800) 322-4400. British Leyland Motors Inc., Leonia, New Jersey 07605.

Life Among the Leaders

The banner hung prominently from the terrace level railing on the third-base side, perfectly in view from the Yankees' dugout.

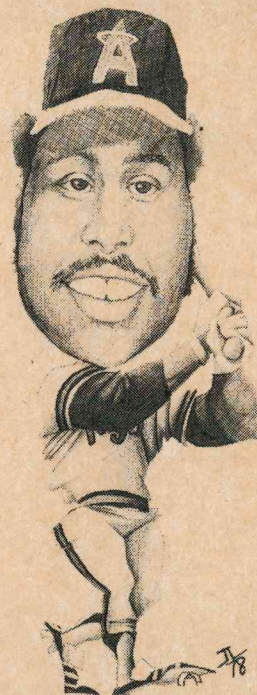

"R. JACKSON IS NO. 1 . . . and we don't mean Reggie!

The Jackson in question is Ron, heretofore known as the versatile and muscular Angel. For a good part of the 1978 season, he has been known as "the league's leading hitter."

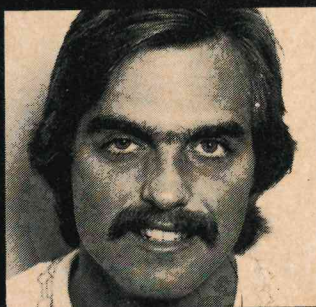

"It doesn't bother me to see my name on top, not at all," said Ron, who neatly filed away for his scrapbook the Apr. 23 sports sections showing him atop the American League batting race. "I knew then there was a long, long way to go in this season. But I'd like to look there in September and see that my name still was leading."

Through May and much of June, Jackson held his position, usually losing it to a lack of at bats, not hits. Platooned under Dave Garcia, he

JIM FREGOSI

Destined to Manage the Angels

Be proud to be an Angel and play as hard as the devil.

That's the keynote of the message Jim Fregosi has given his players since assuming the managerial reins June 1. Not surprisingly, it's a carryover philosophy from shortstop Jim Fregosi, the Angels' all-time leader in 10 major batting categories.

"I always was proud to wear this uniform and I want to build upon that and instill it in my ballplayers," said Fregosi, voted the all-time greatest Angel in a ballot of fans in 1969. "I hope they realize what a great city this is, what a great stadium it is and what an outstanding organization we have.

"The only thing we haven't done here is win, and I intend to do something about that."

The hiring of Fregosi should have come as no surprise. From his formative days as an Angels' rookie, when the team was based in Los Angeles, Fregosi has aspired to become a manager. He asked questions, made observations and put himself in his manager's shoes.

"The final test was when I went to winter ball to manage in 1969," recalled Jim, who maintained his permanent residence in Anaheim. "I did it just to be sure I would like it. We won the Puerto Rican League championship for Ponce and the Caribbean Championship.

"We had players like Clyde Wright,

Bernie Carbo and Wayne Simpson. The next season back in the states I found myself reading the box scores, checking to see how 'my players' were doing. It was very rewarding.

"I didn't go back to winter ball because I spend enough time away from my family. I had done it and liked it, it was just a question of how much longer I could play . . . or at least make people believe I could play."

The end to Fregosi's active career came unceremoniously. On May 31, Pittsburgh Pirates' manager Chuck Tanner started Fregosi at third base. Two errors later he was on the bench with a sore arm.

"But my last at bat was a double off Steve Carlton," Fregosi is quick to point out. "Seriously, when the offer to manage came, it didn't take but a second to realize I was finished as a player."

Executive Vice President Buzzie Bavasi, having obtained permission from the Pirates, called Fregosi on June 1. It was an off day for the Pirates and they were having a casual but noisy get-together in a Cincinnati hotel. Fregosi retired to his room and called Bavasi back. The conversation went something like this:

Bavasi: "I hear you hurt your arm the other day. Does that mean you can't play any more?"

Bavasi: "Would you like to take over here?"

Fregosi: "Yeah."

And that was it.

"I looked into a mirror and said, 'just call me skipper,'" said Jim, who then called wife Jan in Anaheim with son Jimmy and daughter Jennifer.

Jim: "I hurt my arm in the game last night and I'll be coming home."

What's a Velvet Turtle?

It's a beautiful Beef Wellington and a tantalizing Duck a l'Orange. It's tender abalone heaped with delicately sautéed almonds. And roast rack of lamb, artfully prepared. It's a thick, juicy steak and sinfully rich Bavarian chocolate mousse.

It's the perfect place to go before or after the game. For marvelous food. And attentive service. Always accompanied by sensible prices.

Jan: "Coming home?"

Jim: "Yeah, my arm's bad. I think I'll come home and probably manage the Angels."

Jan: "Yeah, sure."

Jim: "Yeah, I'm coming home to manage the Angels."

Jan started crying and long-time Angels fans began celebrating. At last, a piece of tradition was adopted. A former Angel was managing the Angels. Not just any Angel, but the most decorated player in the organization's history.

Fregosi was a six-time All-Star and won Golden Gloves for his fielding. He's the club career leader in hits, runs, doubles, triples, home runs, runs batted in, extra-base hits, total bases, games and at bats. Three times he won the Owner's Trophy as the club's most outstanding player. He played 11 years, from 1961 through 1971, before being traded to the New York Mets for the only man to rival Fregosi in fan appreciation in Anaheim - Nolan Ryan.

The pinnacle of Fregosi's playing career occurred in 1964.

"I was selected to the Look Magazine All-Major League team at shortstop," said Jim, who still wears a wrist watch symbolic of that achievement. "I had achieved my playing goal by being the best shortstop in the game."

"My next goal was to become a major league manager. I would have taken any job, but to come back to my home town is a dream come true. Now my goal is to become the best manager."

probably won't accumulate enough plate appearances (503) to qualify for the batting title.

"I don't know where the story got started that I couldn't hit righthanders," said Ron. "I never had trouble with them in the minor leagues."

If one at bat can sway a manager's opinion, Jackson proved his argument to Jim Fregosi on Sunday, June 4. Against righthander Dennis Eckersley, who last year nohit the Angels, he rifled a long home run to left center field to open the scoring in a 4-2 victory over Boston. He later singled and added a sacrifice fly.

Ironically, circumstances eventually forced Ron into an every day role, even when he wanted a day off. After acclimating himself at first base and even trying his hand in right field, he was back to his old stomping grounds at third base when Carney Lansford injured his thumb.

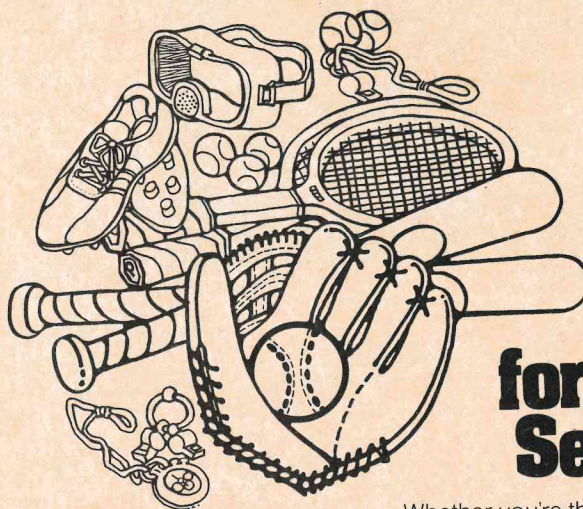

"I've become very comfortable playing first base," said Ron. "It's similar to third in terms of batted balls coming at you, only with opposite spins. Of course you have to get to the bag on all grounders so the constant involvement keeps you more into the game.

"Third base, of course, always has been my position so I like it. I just like being in the lineup, although I could have used a couple of days off when I hurt my back. But everyone else was hurting worse than me at that time."

The consistent performance has been particularly gratifying to Ron, obviously aware of his previous flashes of brilliance. His potential had surfaced on occasions: eight RBI and two home runs on a July 4 doubleheader in 1976 and a four-hit day June 13 of the same year at Detroit. In 1978 he's frequently had those kind of days as well as one or two hits almost every time in the lineup. Through June, he had not gone more than two days without a hit.

"I always thought I could play everyday in the major leagues," said Ron. "It's just nice getting the opportunity to do it and then, most importantly, doing it well almost every day. In the past, I think I put too much pressure on myself trying to prove I could do it."

when movie actors found it a mecca to relax and unwind . . . a haven away — but not too far away — from the rigors of Hollywood. Countless celebrities, including Frank Sinatra, Red Skelton, Elvis Presley, Bob Hope, Doris Day, and Jerry Lewis, have moved to Palm Springs to soak up the warm sunshine.

Today, Palm Springs is one of the world's more popular visitor attractions, and devotees continue to laud the city with titles. Some call it the "golf capital of the world" because there are 37 man cured golf courses in the area. More than 100 tournaments are held annually, the largest being the Bob Hope Desert Classic, the American Airlines Golf Classic, and the Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle LPGA Tournament — the richest women's golf tourney in the world.

The warm, dry climate is one very major attraction. The average daytime high is 88 degrees; nighttime average is a comfortable 55 degrees; humidity is quite low; precipitation — yes, it does rain in the desert — averages 5.39 inches.

Palm Springs' success story can also be directly attributed to the Agua Caliente Indians' ancient "miracle healing" mineral waters, which have been an important draw since the spa's earliest days as a tiny and sleepy village. Still flowing beneath the now-modern city's streets, the waters continue to spring forth to soothe tired aching muscles and revitalize sagging spirits.

More than 5,600 swimming pools in Palm Springs offer the appeal of year-round sunbathing and cool relaxation.

And, as if all these charms were not enough, further beckoning tourists are Palm Springs' bountiful tennis courts, both public and private, some of them night-lighted.

THE BULLPEN

Dear Editor:

How did the "bullpen" get its name?

Danny Miller
Van Nuys

• In baseball's early days, relief pitchers were rare. Starters usually went the distance. When help was needed, the next pitcher would wander out by the outfield fence to loosen up. In many parks, Bull Durham tobacco ads were painted on the walls. When warm-up areas eventually were designated, the name "bullpen" gained favor because of the association with Bull Durham. If you were referring to the name of this column, the legend is less well known. Rumor has it the original scorebook editor was a frustrated reliever.

Dear Editor:

How is the pitcher of record determined during a game?

Tim Good
Riverside

• The "pitchers of record" are the hurlers who will receive the win or loss in the game. As long as the starters remain in the game, there is no confusion. When relievers get involved, the most pertinent fact is who allowed the last run(s) to cause a change in the lead and who was in the game for the winning team when the lead changed hands. Of course, there are two special rules. A starter must go at least five full innings to receive a victory and the official scorer may award a victory to a relief pitcher who pitches much more effectively than the relief pitcher of record.

Dear Editor:

Did Ron Fairly ever play with the Brooklyn Dodgers?

Phil Hillman
Huntington Beach

• Ron's career is a long one but it doesn't quite reach that far back. Fairly signed a professional contract in 1958, the first year the Dodgers played in Los Angeles.

Dear Editor:

Has an Angels pitcher ever won or lost both games of a doubleheader?

John Griff
Long Beach

• On June 26, 1977, Paul Hartzell won both ends of a doubleheader vs. Texas. He pitched two scoreless innings to win 4-3 in 11 innings in the opener and then, with a save from Dave LaRoche, won the nightcap by the same score after hurling 1½ scoreless innings. On the other end of the success ladder, Art Fowler lost both games of an Aug. 2, 1961 doubleheader at Boston by scores of 7-2 and 8-7.

Do you have questions or comments for the editor? If so, we would like to hear from you.

If we print your letter, you will receive two free tickets to an Angels game. Please keep questions brief. Address them to: Scorebook Editor, Angels, P.O. Box 2000, Anaheim, CA 92803. Be sure to include your address. Winners will be notified prior to publication.

FRANK TANANA

'78 Model Running Smoothly & Quietly

Since he's from Detroit, it's only natural that a new model Frank Tanana be rolled off the assembly line every few years.

In 1973-74 it was the struggling newcomer. A mere lad of 21, he endured some growing pains trying to gain acceptance and logged a 16-21 record.

From 1975 to 1977 he became established. Always confident and quotable, now he could expound happy-go-lucky philosophies. Because he was a winner, capturing 50 of 78 decisions in those years, he was accepted as a brash and confident performer.

"When people think about great pitchers, I want Frank Tanana to come to their minds," he said often, usually after another impressive victory. "I want to be the best pitcher in baseball."

In 1978, the look and lines are subdued. The flowery pronouncements have been retired. Basically, he has arrived. No longer need he toot his own horn. Let the opposition orchestrate the praise.

"No longer will you hear me say I'm the best," said Tanana, who always has maintained a serious side. "If writers or other players or managers say it, fine, that's great. But not me anymore."

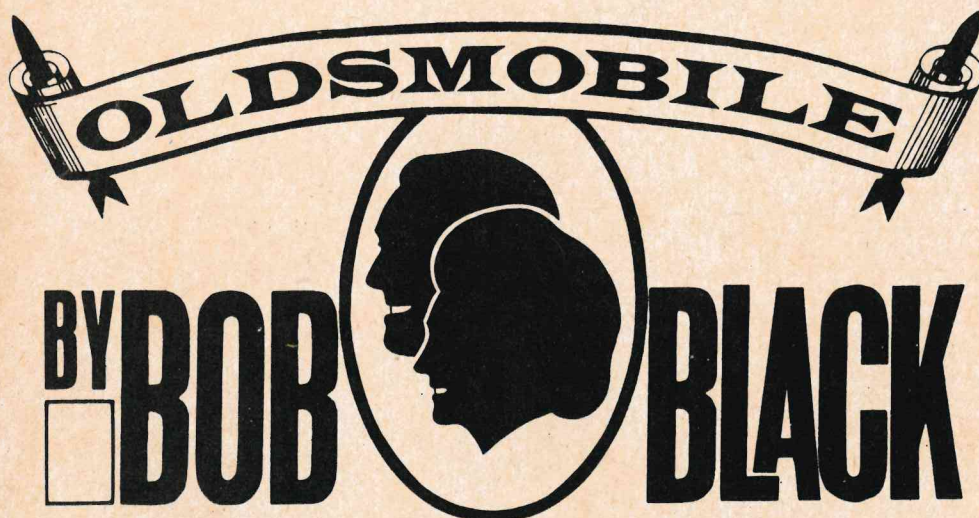

"Last year won't be forgotten. I got off to a great start and was really high. Then I hurt my arm and for awhile, I thought it might be all over. The fall was painful and I don't want to get myself up so high again."

The change in Tanana has not been restricted to his performance on the field or in the clubhouse. After constantly adding fuel to an admittedly overrated "playboy" image, Tanana made a U-Turn and walked down the aisle of matrimony. Cathy Mull became Mrs. Frank Tanana on January 14.

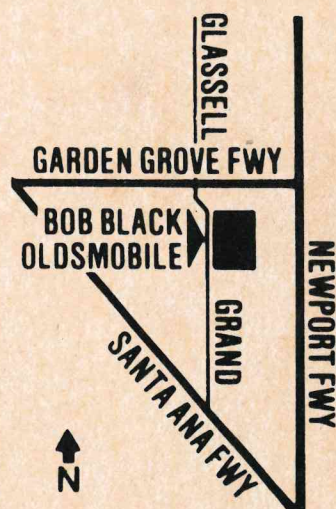

"I've never been happier," said Frank. "You see, I never was much of a party-goer anyway. My idea of a date was a nice quiet evening, dinner and a show. However, Cathy and I did meet at a disco."

"She couldn't believe I played baseball for a living. I don't think she took me seriously until I asked her to marry me."

Marriage certainly agreed with Tanana's pitching form. Again in 1978 he got out of the blocks early, winning his first five decisions. He became the first Angel ever to win five in April and also was accorded American League "Player of the Month" honors. He's done it with a combination of control, intelligence, off-speed deliveries and "what's left of what I used to call a fast ball."

"With each outing I feel my arm getting stronger and stronger," reports Frank. "But as long as I can keep winning with this slow stuff, I'm going to keep on trying to trick 'em. You can't knock success."

And you can't knock the current model Tanana. He's getting high performance and good mileage out of his left arm and he's yet to require a tune-up or oil change.

If you buy an athletic shoe by name, remember this one.

Kinney NBA.

Kinney NBA. A great name in sports joins forces with a great name in footwear. And the result is quality.

NBA athletic shoes have most of the same features you'd expect from a high-priced label. Full arch support, reinforced stress points, wrap-around heel and toe protection, padded tongue and heel. But they're priced far less.

So get ready for action. Step into a pair of Kinney NBA's. With two great names on the same label, you can't go wrong.

VRR-ROOM!

The gutsy excitement of a sports car. Enough carrying capacity to surprise owners of cars much larger. Toyota has brought fun and practicality together. And combined it with famous Toyota durability and value. The beautiful result—the 1978 Toyota Corolla SR-5 Liftback.

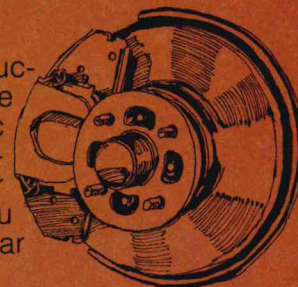

Driving made fun again. Corolla Liftback puts the fun back in driving because it's got many of the design features of a sports car. Like a standard 5-speed overdrive transmission. So you get maximum performance from the peppy 1.6 liter engine. Corolla also has MacPherson strut front suspension and steel belted radial-ply tires. So it handles as crisply as it moves out.

Sporty cars can be roomy too. Corolla Liftback's big rear hatch allows you to easily load objects many bigger cars can't handle. And the split, fold-down rear seat lets you take any combination of people and gear along for the ride. That's why a pair of skis and your best friend can share the back of a Corolla Liftback with no hard feelings.

A very together car. Corolla's unitized-body construction helps keep your car from getting rattled by a little thing like a bumpy road. Power assisted front disc brakes help you keep your cool, 'cause they're fade resistant. The Corolla SR-5 Liftback. It's the sporty car with room, Vrr-room, and Toyota durability. Now you know why we say, "If you can find a better built small car than a Toyota... buy it!"

YOU GOT IT.

How to Figure...

Batting Average — divide the total number of hits collected by a player by the total number of at bats. Example: Player A is 12-for-40 or .300.

Slugging Average — divide the number of total bases by the total number of at bats. Example: Player A's 12 hits include six singles (6), one double (2), two triples (6) and three home runs (12) for 26 total bases in 40 at bats and a .650 slugging average.

Earned Run Average — the total number of earned runs allowed by a pitcher is divided by the total number of innings pitched and then multiplied by nine for his per-game average. Example: Pitcher B has allowed 12 runs in 45 innings of work for a 2.40 ERA.

Fielding Average — The sum of putouts and assists is divided by the sum of putouts, assists and errors. Example: Player C has made 16 putouts and 24 assists and two errors. That's 40 putouts and assists divided by 42 chances for a fielding average of .952.

Won-Lost Percentage — divide the number of victories by the sum of victories and defeats (the total number of games played). Example: 22 wins and 18 losses produce a winning percentage of .550.

Magic Number — determine the number of games yet to be played by the division leader, add one, then subtract the number of games ahead in the loss column of the standings from the closest opponent.

Qualifications —

ROOKIE — a player shall be considered a rookie unless, during a previous season or seasons, he has a) exceeded 130 at bats or 50 innings pitched in the major leagues; b) accumulated more than 45 days on the active roster of a major league club or clubs during the period of the 25-player limit (excluding time in military service).

BATTING CHAMPION — a player must have a total of 502 plate appearances (at bats plus sacrifice bunts, sacrifice flies, walks and hit by pitcher).

ERA CHAMPION — a pitcher must hurl 162 innings in a season to qualify for the earned run average championship.

The numbers and symbols required are explained in the boxes above and below. The basic concepts are: 1. Most outs are produced by fly balls and infield grounders. For a fly, record only the position number of the player who catches it. For a grounder, use the combination of the

In the 1961 opener, Yost led off by flying to the shortstop (6). Aspromonte was called out on strikes (Kc). Pearson drew a walk (w) and scored ahead of first-baseman (3) Kluszewski's home run (circle) to right (9) field. The dot in Pearson's box accents the run scored. The number inside the circle for "Klu"

In the second inning, Rice walked. He was forced out at second (2-6) as Grba reached first on the fielder's choice (FC). Grba advanced to second on the walk to Yost (5); to third on Aspromonte's (4) fielder's choice; and to home on Pearson's (9) single.

Third inning shows a ground-ball double play (DP). Hunt was aboard after being hit by a pitch(HP). He was retired at second (5-4) and Brickell at first on the relay (4-3).

Opponent pitching changes are indicated by a wavy line, to indicate the first batter he faces. The pitcher's name is extended to the margin.

K – strikeout; Kc – called strikeout; W – walk; E – error; F – foul; FC – fielder's choice; PH – pinch-hit; PR – pinch-run; SB – stolen base; CS – caught stealing; SAC – sacrifice; DP – double play; IW – intentional walk; B – bunt; HP – hit by pitch; / – end of inning; – – single; = = double; - - triple; circle – home run; wavy line – pitching change.

Rawlings dominates the World Series.

All of the balls, most of the gloves, and the record setting bat.

Rawlings Baseballs: We made every ball used during the Series and the regular season. And we will for the next nine years. Rawlings Gloves: At least thirteen of the starters in each Series game used Rawlings gloves. And during the regular season, more players used Rawlings than any other brand. Adirondack® Bats: Our familiar "Pro Ring" circled bats swung by sixteen of the thirty-six Series batters. One swung his Adirondack a little better than the rest — to break or tie eight Series slugging records. Rawlings Domination: What's it mean to you? Plenty. Because if you're a little leaguer, beer leaguer, or semi-pro, there's a Rawlings ball, glove and bat that's as right for you as the models we build for the pros. And you can't build 'em any better than that.

Nolan Ryan's March through Strikeout List

Despite a May slump and a disabling June injury, Nolan Ryan has made a considerable leap up the all-time strikeout ladder.

At the beginning of the season, Ryan ranked No. 15. In short order he passed Ferguson Jenkins, Sam McDowell, Don Drysdale and Christy Mathewson. On June 10, in his final performance before pulling a hamstring muscle in his left leg, he notched No. 2,539 to pass Timothy Lincecum. That put him into the Top Ten behind still active Gaylord Perry, Mickey Lolich and Tom Seaver.

The Top 15 strikeout artists of all-time as they stood on Opening Day:

1. Walter Johnson	3,508
2. Bob Gibson	3,117
3. Jim Bunning	2,855
4. Gaylord Perry	2,847*
5. Cy Young	2,819
6. Mickey Lolich	2,799*
7. Warren Spahn	2,583
8. Bob Feller	2,581
9. Timothy Lincecum	2,538
10. Tom Seaver	2,530*
11. Christy Mathewson	2,505
12. Don Drysdale	2,486
13. Sam McDowell	2,453
14. Fergie Jenkins	2,449*
15. NOLAN RYAN	2,426*
